

GEORGIA GOSSIP.

SHORT TALKS WITH THE SCRIBES OF THE COUNTY PRESS.

The Alapco Fiasco as Embazoned Abroad—The Head County Robbery—The Pauper List of Troup—Boys Burned Up—An Aged Woman—Other Gossip—Matter.

A Troup county lady 88 years of age is cutting an upper front tooth.

From the Reporter it is learned that Mr. Silas Brown, who was robbed in Head county last week went to LaGrange and deposited the rest of his money. He says that the men were masked and that their hair, in its disguise, seemed to be long and straight. He heard a noise in the yard and as he was expecting his brother at that moment, bade the persons come in. They entered and immediately pointed their guns at him, calling on him to look out and to deliver his money. Mr. Brown was so frightened that he ran out of the house, falling into the yard, in his haste. He crouched under the house and thence to his cabin. In the meantime, the marauders seized a truck containing $1,500 in greenbacks. Mr. Brown's wife was a Miss Phillips, formerly of Long Lane. She and a son died a few years since. His aged mother and a little daughter constitute his family now. John W. Brown and a boy named Cox were arrested by the marshal of Franklin on suspicion of having committed the deed. They were to have had their preliminary trial before a magistrate's court in the district, where the robbery took place. House and Cox were seen near Brown's residence on the evening of the robbery; also, that there was something peculiar about the shape of the boy's hand, that a track leading from the house was compared with it and a perfect correspondence found. House was given his liberty on a $3,000 bond, to appear at the commitment trial.

Concerning the Alapco riot, the Albany News says: "The more we hear about the origin of the alleged riot, and about what really occurred, the more we are convinced that the whole affair was exaggerated from its inception. A little sober, courageous action upon the part of the officers and law-abiding citizens of Alapco might have dispersed the rioters very soon after they entered the town. Unless something more serious and overwhelming transpired than anything we have yet heard of appears to have been, there was no necessity for ever calling upon the governor for military aid. We learn that all the parties implicated in the intimidation and resistance of the officers will be indicted at the next term of superior court of Berrien county, and it is presumed there will be no further arrests or prosecutions, until the court is sat."

In Coffee county a great many sheep have been burned to death recently by fire in the woods. It is said that when they come in close contact with fire they lie down and are thus burned to death. As many as forty head were destroyed in one place near John Lott.

From the Eastern Times it is learned that the correspondent who gets up the novel telegrams from Georgia for the New York Herald will visit Eastern in a few days to get fresh food for his imagination. The New York Herald of the fifth instant had a dispatch concerning the Alapco riot in which Turner was represented as a "wealthy planter," rudely confined in jail; that upwards of "thirty mounted men" rode into town, and besieged the jail where the sheriff shot one of the men. The sheriff was captured and released at Forsyth, March 26th.

Also, at the same time and place six delegates and six aldermen to represent the citizens of the county were sent to the state convention at Forsyth, March 26th.

The following is the essence of a resolution introduced by L. L. Hause, of Atlanta: "That a representative county convention be called to meet at the Bibb county courthouse on the 12th of April next, to consider and transact any other business as may come before it. In the meantime convened, the Bibb county militia shall be entitled to four delegates who shall be elected at meetings to be held in the various wards of the county. March 26th.

The following parties were authorized to organize said meetings:

1. L. L. Hause, N. Blackshear, J. R. Hause, will meet at Andrew's store, East Macon.

Second ward—L. L. Hause, Daniel Young's house.

Third ward—Tillman Lowe, Seller's school-house.

Fourth ward—J. E. Tripp, Union Hall.

Fifth ward—Albert Lundy, Sunnyside church.

Hazard district—Jesse Jenkins, Holy Grove church.

Marion district—W. H. Brown, P. O. Holt, and others.

Godfrey district—Rev. Jolly Thomas, his church.

Godfrey district—Leroy Holt and Albert Campbell's house.

East Macon—C. H. Holly, his residence.

Augusta, Georgia.

CUSA-ETA, March 7.—Last night, about 9 o'clock, the house of Israel Gorday, of this county, was burned, together with all his furniture and clothing.

His smokehouse, containing six hundred pounds of bacon and forty-eight gallons of ham, was also destroyed.

He is a member of the Knights of America, died this morning.

CUSA-ETA, March 7.—James McEaster died at the residence of Mr. Gammon to day.

A little child of J. W. R. Wausell is dangerously ill.

While two boys were shooting near town one of them accidentally discharged a gun, wounding the other painfully in the shoulder.

An alarm was sounded during the rain and called out the entire department, but no damage was done. There is considerable demand for electric fire alarm systems.

INDICATIONS for the south Atlantic states: slightly colder, cloudy weather, with rain increasing, southerly winds, except easterly winds in northern part, and lower barometer.

THE friends of the late Herr Lasker made a lively scene in the Reichstag yesterday. But the iron hand was upon them, and they grew still.

THESE are not enough white republicans in Louisiana to run for the offices. A democrat was nominated for attorney-general, and he declined.

CHARLOTTON county does not often figure in public annals. The execution of a colored murderer named McLain at Trader's Hill shows that justice holds full sway.

WILLIAM HENRY SMITH, general manager of the New York associated press, appeared before a congressional committee yesterday, and told that body how to run a newspaper.

EX-SENATOR SPENCER explains that his information to the Garfield cabinet concerning the star route frauds was confidential, and that President Garfield expressly promised so to him.

JOHN S. WISE has gone wrong on politics, and on the reception of kitchen guests, but he has grown sensible on the question of duelling. He declines a meeting with Page McCarthy, as he finds life too full of more important subjects which demand his attention.

THE West Virginia democratic state convention will be held at Charleston, Kanawha county, April 10, to elect delegates to the national convention. Four delegates at large will be chosen, after which the members from the various congressional districts will caucus and select district delegates.

CONCEALED WEAPONS.

A grand jury in New Orleans has just made some presentments in regard to the carrying of concealed weapons. According to these presentments the bully and the coward, and the habitual violators of law and order, are the ones that carry concealed weapons, and not the honest, law-abiding citizens. The grand jury also say that there is an unhealthy public sentiment in New Orleans which aids and abets the violators of the law, and prevents the police from suppressing the practice. The St. Louis Republican, quoting from the presentments, is of the opinion that nothing could indicate a wider misconception of facts than the report. And this is our opinion. If concealed weapons were carried only by the bully and the coward, and the habitual violators of the law, nothing, it seems to us, would be easier than to stop the practice; but the trouble is, pistols are carried by a class of young men who associate the carrying of arms with manhood. They are young men without judgment, but with good intentions. They do not expect to kill anybody, and they rarely use their weapons, but they have not arrived at the age when their experience tells them that it is both cowardly and dishonorable to go among decent people armed with a pistol.

There has been a great improvement in Atlanta and in Georgia so far as the carrying of concealed weapons is concerned. Some of the young men still carry them, but the better bred young men are gradually leaving the hip-pocket to the criminal classes. The public sentiment, which alone can reprobate the evil, is already at work, and in a few years, when it is to be hoped, even the youngest young man will not be too young to know that to carry a pistol is dishonorable and disgraceful.

ANOTHER DEMOCRATIC CRISIS.

As Editor Hutchins, of the Washington Post, declares, the country is on the verge of a crisis with respect to a tariff measure that has not the remotest chance of becoming a law, why is it not true that there is a democratic crisis with respect to the passage of the bonded whisky bill, which, if there is any honesty among voters, ought to drive thousands away from the democratic party at the north. At the south, self-respect, self-preservation and a thousand and one contingencies compel the white people to vote the democratic ticket in any event; but there are no such contingencies and no such emergencies at the north, and we have no doubt that the adoption of the bonded whisky swindle under the auspices of the democratic party in congress will turn the tide against that party in the states that are now doubtful enough to afford hope.

The bonded whisky bill is a piece of jobbery pure and simple, and its adoption by the democratic house will go far toward convincing the independent class at the north that democratic professions of honesty and reform amount to nothing. There is absolutely nothing to be said in favor of such a bill.

BISMARCK has no use for America and the Americans. He believes in blue blood and high culture, and thinks that we have very little of either in America. He scorns Minister Sargent whenever he can, simply because Sargent cannot speak German. Bismarck is very ignorant of the deeper aspects of German literature. The book "Germany Seen and Described" is a good book, but the book "Out and Spectacles" is the latest offense in this respect, and its republication in Germany has been prohibited. If Americans would treat Bismarck more respectfully it is possible that he would be less boorish.

BRIEFS MORRISON and Stillson Hutchins should make a democratic crisis of the bonded whisky bill. For our part, we consider opposition to that huge tax a test of genuine democracy.

THE proposition made by The Current to divide $1,000 among writers of short stories, according to work, and the probability is that the job will go through without discussion.

And yet, it seems to us, one earnest speech from an honest man would be sufficient to kill it. It is class legislation pure and simple. It is a proposition to rob the people for the benefit of men upon whom the burden of taxation does not fall. Push the whisky men into a corner and they will tell you that they are not particularly interested in the measure. They are very frank and candid in regard to the matter. The secretary of the Kentucky whisky distillers' association declared in THE CONSTITUTION, over his own signature, that the whisky makers were not interested in the measure, and that they were maintaining no lobby at Washington. He said the manufacturers had made the whisky to order, and then their responsibility ceased. Now, then, who is maintaining the lobby at Washington, and what interest is interested in pushing the swindle through congress? The tax is paid by neither the manufacturer nor the dealer, but by the consumer.

The independent newspapers are full of genuine humor. They are the authors of the comical stories of her father's bidding facility, and is going with her mother for a summer's visit to Norway, attempting conquests, probably, in some of the principal places.

AN EXCHANGE gives currency to the statement that a series of prehistoric mica mines have recently been discovered in Louisiana. It is said that the surrounding vegetation indicates the lapse of at least 500 years since these mines were abandoned.

JOSEPH W. SMITH, of Andover, Mass., has given an exchange of an unique character. He has paid an instant credit such an enormous sum that it had its origin in the jealousy of certain outsiders who were interested in the conclusion that George T. Tilden was getting up a corner on that valuable mineral. Georgia mica is better, more valuable, older and is found in larger quantities than the article found in France.

THE New York gold-bugs are still fighting against silver. They should wait upon the people, for without doubt, when the people get tired of silver they will order its coinage stopped.

At Washington, N. J., the colored people are in a state of mind over the appearance of the devil. The remarkable part of the story is the fact that a big revival is now going on and his brimstone majesty makes it a point to hover over the church. According to one witness he has been seen to enter the church through a window and to come out again. It must take a queer sort of revival of religion to interest and attract the devil, and New Jersey is probably the only state in the union where such a thing could occur.

BISMARCK's reichstag has begun business. Herr Blom's memory will not be bruited—not as long as Bismarck's thumb is large enough to cover the empire.

LAST Sunday Father Larkin, in the course of the service in the Church of the Holy Innocents in New York, made a bitter attack upon "The Shaughraun" and its author, Dion Boucicault.

The republicans open the campaign with restored confidence. The accession of Sergeant Bates is as much as an event that points in the direction of weakness.

ANTHONY COMPTON recently caused the arrest of Frank Foushee, the New York publisher of the "Brookdale Library," on the charge of vending obscene literature. The particular book to which Comstock took exception was "The Mysteries of the Court of London," a novel by G. W. Reynolds. While it is true that the novel in question is one of the coarsest and most sensational of its school it is singular that it should fall under the ban of the law for the first time, when it has been in circulation for about forty years.

ANTHONY COMPTON continues to declare that Mr. Tilden will not and cannot be a candidate. This indicates that he is preparing Mr. Tilden to be the next president.

It is believed that if Bismarck was seventy or eighty years younger he would not only be able to edit the "Dentist's Weekly," but would succeed in bringing the whole world under the benign influence of imperialism. But, as matters stand, Bismarck is even older than Tom Ochitree, who has already begun to grow gray in the mind.

THE esteemed administration has given out that it has no idea of recalling Minister Sargent from Berlin. But this statement is premature. When Bismarck gets tired of Sargent he will not hesitate to order him home.

THE campaign in Georgia is like a chestnut burr. It opens slowly, but when it does open things have got to drop.

YESTERDAY Uncle Thomas' Hendricks, according to all accounts, is loyal to the old ticket. A sore toe is sometimes a blessing in disguise. A sore toe would be a great help to many of our bleeding democratic statesmen.

Is the republican campaign committee willing to submit its books and papers to the inspection of the public? Mr. Dorsey, the great republican statesman, says not.

How many blooming politicians have plowed their vein!

The number of men in the Polish districts require the greatest number of men.

SYNDYER is the bane of journalism and always has been. The lawyer, the doctor, and the amateur generally have been a curse to the newspaper business, but more than these has the popular contributor to degrade the profession and bring it into ridicule and contempt. It is sufficient to name the author of "The Last of the Mohicans" and the author of "The Last of the Mohicans" to show the fact that cotton is a comparatively scarce article.

It is believed that the loss of a million of bales in this crop must be felt sooner or later. At this moment we have only 650,000 bales to give Europe, compared with 1,400,000 bales last year, and Europe, it is to be hoped, will not be so exacting as to the fact that cotton is a comparatively scarce article.

THE next vessels that are ordered to be built will undoubtedly be real war vessels; vessels so heavily armored that the heaviest guns cannot readily break through their walls. The four steel cruisers now building are not such vessels. The four will be useful and are needed, but their armor is not thick enough to resist shot from modern rifled guns. Additional vessels should be heavily armored and constructed especially for battle.

At present we have not a single fighting ship, but they have not arrived at the age when their experience tells them that it is both cowardly and dishonorable to go among decent people armed with a pistol.

THE proposition made by The Current to divide $1,000 among writers of short stories, according to merit (nothing to be paid for the prestige of a name), has met with a most decided opposition.

The offer closed at $1,000, and has given abundant demonstration of remarkable versatility and power.

In the part of a great number of hitherto unknown writers, while the fact is noteworthy that no one section of the country has contributed work superior to that of any other. A list of the accepted stories will appear in The Current by, or before May 1.

The independent newspapers are full of genuine humor. They are the authors of the comical stories of her father's bidding facility, and is going with her mother for a summer's visit to Norway, attempting conquests, probably, in some of the principal places.

A KISSING festival, with Patti, Crittenden, Clara Morris, and Sherman in the leading roles, supported by a company enrolled in Flatbush, would draw like a mustard plaster.

MRS. OLE BULL's little daughter Olea, now twelve years old, inherits something of her father's bidding facility, and is going with her mother for a summer's visit to Norway, attempting conquests, probably, in some of the principal places.

A EXCHANGE gives currency to the statement that a series of prehistoric mica mines have recently been discovered in Louisiana. It is said that the surrounding vegetation indicates the lapse of at least 500 years since these mines were abandoned.

A WAR OF RATES.

ATTACOOA ANNOUNCES THE APPEARANCE OF A CUT.

Mr. Joseph M. Brown Had to Say Through the Telephone about it—It Means Nothing and Yet There May be More in it than Appears Upon the Service—Wait and See.

ATTACOOA, March 7.—The Merchant of this line to day notified the merchants of this that the rates from Chattanooga to New York been put on the same basis in Nashville. This cut of nearly thirty per cent, first class rates being reduced from $1.15 to 85 cents, and other rates in proportion. The impression prevails that this is the premonition of a collapse of the southern railway pool, although it is claimed by me that it was caused by a cut by the eastern lines. The Western and Atlantic to night offers to set the rate via the southern steamship line, and East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia will probably follow suit to-morrow.

A Talk with Mr. Joseph M. Brown.

The above dispatch came in at twelve o'clock night and a pair of minutes a CONSTITUTION had rung up Mr. Joseph M. Brown at the telephone. Mr. Brown had the hand telephone at his in a second or so and the scribe read the dispatch to him.

"What about it?" was asked of the young railroader.

"It is so, I guess," was the reply. "I heard there was a cut, and of course if there is one we will meet."

"Where does the cut start?"

"I think it is the route by Louisville and Cincinnati. I guess some of those big lines have quartered and cut, but I don't think it will amount to anything."

"Is it not the beginning of the rate war?"

"I do not so consider it. I think the trouble will patched up in a day or two and things will then go on as usual."

"Then we will break the pool?"

"No, the pools are right."

There are three routes competing for the business as is effected by this cutting. The route by Louisville, the Western and Atlantic and the East Tennessee. THE CONSTITUTION has kept readers fully informed so far and to date is up with the news. The only thing to do now is to wait and watch.

BITS OF HUMOR.

WANTED A SQUAT.

From the Wall Street News.

During the height of the freshet in the Ohio river a steamer which was approaching Portsmouth discovered a family of five persons floating down on the roof of their house.

The steamer sheered in until the captain could almost touch the roof with a boat, but the head of the family replied:

"You needn't go to any trouble about it."

"Well, I don't feel uneasy."

"You'd better come aboard."

"No, I guess not. We've got plenty to eat and drink, and we are all women and children are gittin' to the slant of the roof."

"But can I do anything for you?"

He stopped and said to the woman at the gate:

"What are you doing?"

"She is laughing with hilarity. I'm laughing at old Bull's dog with a kettle tied to its tail."

"It's a awful funny, isn't it?" the little boy said.

"I guess it is. Your dog is yours."

Then the woman at the gate suddenly stopped laughing.

PRESIDENTIAL.

From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, rep.

The next presidential election will be determined by the vote cast within four miles of the city half of New York. If this vote is less than 40,000, the Democratic and the 60,000 the chances are the other way. This is as Mr. Carlile would phrase it, the illus in nuce of the political situation.

From the New York Truth, inc.

Charles A. Arthur may not be the best man for president. But he is the only available candidate.

He is the only man in the field who can carry the state of New York. His nomination would be acceptable to all classes.

Bianco's nomination would be tantamount to the assured success of the democratic party.

Under the circumstances George A. Arthur is the best, man the republican party can choose.

From the Cincinnati News-Journal, dem.

Fifty-five democratic papers in Ohio have demanded and are still demanding that the Standard Oil Company be compelled to accept the sentence over the almost unanimous protest of the people.

If the Standard Oil could think an old man of seventy years too heavy a burden to bear, and in the race, then, too heavy a load.

From the Omaha Herald, dem.

The "old ticket" is in great demand in this part of the country. Men should not aspire to the impossible.

A cyclone exploded.

Mr. W. F. Wright, of Leeds, Alabama, suffered severely by the cyclone. The following correspondence explains itself, and will be read with interest:

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 7, 1884.—Dr. W. F. Wright—My Dear Sir: Enclosed you will please find duplicate of deposit to your credit in the national bank of Birmingham. Also, in the amount of two hundred and fifty dollars, a contribution for the Red Cross. Enclosed both the officers and contractors which we hope you will accept in the friendly way it is meant.

With my new deposit we have our most sincere regards in your great affliction, and we wish that we could render assistance in the same.

With many wishes for early recovery of your people, we are very truly yours,

S. B. MASON.
